Commander's Comments

Dear Members, I would like to start off this month by thanking all the people that volunteered to make our annual picnic a great success. I think everyone had a wonderful time and this wouldn't have been possible without the many volunteers. The food and company were great. We also had a work day to paint and seal the Conex box we purchased for storage. It was well attended, and I want to thank everyone who volunteered to help. It looks really good.

We have Halloween coming up and that means its time to support our communities Trunk and Treat Event on October 27th from 5 to 7 p.m. on Main Street in Rathdrum. So, I know you are asking what the American Legion's focus around Halloween is. It comes down to safety. In 1972, The American Legion implemented a nationwide Halloween safety program for young trick-or-treaters, the first and only one of its kind. Since then, the Commission (now Committee) on Children & Youth has, in the words of its Chairman's Guide, "urged ... membership to conduct Halloween programs that are designed to keep young children safe in an effort to reduce accidents associated with Halloween." Keeping kids out of harm's way on Halloween started well before 1972. As far back as 1930, The American Legion Monthly described local posts' efforts to put on community Halloween celebrations in places like Coos Bay, Ore., "to cut down on youthful danger and vandalism." If you would like to help, please contact the Halloween Committee. (cont' below)

November will be here before we know it. November 10 we will be having our traditional Veterans Recondition Event for all who served and are currently serving this great country of ours. This year we are recognizing our Vietnam Veterans. Please plan to come and bring family friends and bring a veteran friend as well.

The 2018 membership year is here. Please renew your dues as soon as possible. Our dues are going up to $45 dollars on January 1st. As of today's membership reports, our post is last in District 1. I guess you guys want me to lose my job. Please help us reach our 55% goal for October. The Legion Headquarters in Indiana will send out renewal notices at various times during the year. You do NOT however, have to wait for that renewal notice. Legionnaires can also renew on line at legion.org/renew

Once again, I thank all of you for this opportunity to serve as your Commander. For God and Country. - Dee Sasse, Commander

Adjutant's Message:

Special VETERANS section coming out in The Spokesman Review on Veterans Day

There will be a special 24-page section coming out on November 11th that is focused exclusively on veterans. There will be a variety of content including articles specific to veterans, homes for sale that will qualify VA, employment opportunities and some specific program information. It will be a great opportunity to highlight veteran stories and provide help to veterans needing it. Three Post 154 members, Don Walker, Bryan Bledsoe, and Bill Tibbits have been working on this project for the past few months. Depending on the interest this generates, beginning in January there will be up to 4 pages each week in The Spokesman Review devoted to veterans.

If you have ideas for articles or veteran stories, please contact Bryan at bryandbledsoe@gmail.com or call 509-990-6739 – Bryan Bledsoe, Adjutant

Finance Officer:

At the end of August, the Post had a bank balance of $3,340.68. That is somewhat misleading, however because of that total, $2,551.10 is restricted funds for specific programs or events including Veteran Home donations, funds for Boys / Girls State, Flag Box donations, Flag Education donations and donations for the Veterans Recognition event. That leaves the Post with an unrestricted cash balance of $789.58 unless we decide to dip into our capital reserves.

Please remember this when you are proposing additional expenses. We have a small amount of available cash to get us through the rest of the year. If you have a suggestion for a major expense item, please also come up with an offsetting income generating suggestion!! Thanks. -

Len Crosby, Finance Officer

Legislative Chairman:

I have received an update on the VA Mission Act from Sid Smith of Sen. Risch's office. His e-mail follows:
Hi Len,

I remember a few months ago, you asked Karen and me about funding for the VA MISSION Act, but I didn't have an answer, because the funding picture was unsettled. It appears to be coming into focus. On Friday, I received an update, which I have pasted below. While nothing is guaranteed, I just wanted to give you the latest. Let me know if you have questions.

Milcon-VA Bill Talks: Appropriators are also close to a deal on a fiscal 2019 spending package that would fund energy, nuclear and veterans' programs. Lawmakers said they were close to producing a final version of the "minibus" spending package covering Military Construction-VA, Energy and Water and Legislative Branch funds, Senate Appropriations Chairman Richard Shelby told reporters.

One of the final hurdles was how to include an extra $1 billion to $2 billion to fund the VA MISSION Act, which gives veterans more flexibility to seek health care outside of VA facilities, without violating discretionary spending limits under the Budget Control Act. Democrats are upset the measure would require cuts to other programs to offset the cost of the new law, but they may ultimately support the law anyway, Rep. Debbie Wasserman Schultz (D-Fla.), ranking member of the House Appropriations Military Construction-VA Subcommittee, told reporters yesterday.

Sidney C. Smith
North Idaho Regional Director
U.S. Senator Jim Risch

The Senate recently advanced two important bills including the American Legion - supported S. 899, the Veterans Providing Healthcare Transition Improvement Act, which would ensure veterans who work for VA are able to attend medical appointments for service-connected health conditions within their first year of employment, without having to take unpaid leave.

The Senate also passed H.R. 2147, the Veterans Treatment Court Improvement Act of 2018, which would require VA to increase the number of Veterans Justice Outreach Specialists who assist justice-involved veterans in receiving the treatment they need, instead of being incarcerated for crimes that were associated with untreated or undertreated service-connected health conditions. Both S. 899 and H.R. 2147 have passed by the House and Senate and now head to the president's desk. (cont' below)

Members of the House and Senate Committees on Veterans' Affairs also recently sent VA Secretary Robert Wilkie a letter urging him to use his current authority to conduct medical research into the safety and efficacy of medicinal cannabis. The letter highlighted conducting this research with a focus on veteran patients with post-traumatic stress disorder and chronic pain so providers can better understand the potential benefits or dangers of medicinal cannabis.

Changes coming to Tricare: Starting in November, eligible families that use the TRICARE Retiree Dental Program will need to enroll in the Federal Employees Dental and Vision Insurance Program (FEDVIP) and choose a new dental plan. The TRICARE Dental program will be ending on 12/31/18, and current enrollees will NOT be automatically signed up for FEDVIP. This is the first time that FEDVIP is being offered to TRICARE eligible retirees and their families. The change affects 1.6 Million beneficiaries and also allows 1.3 Million retired beneficiaries this choice. The FEDVIP vision plan will include eye exams, glasses and contacts. The enrollment period is only open from November 12 to December 10, so if you are eligible make sure you enroll in this program.

Military Lending Act: The American Legion partnered with nearly three dozen veteran and military service organizations and others to urge Defense Secretary James Mattis and Consumer Financial Protection Bureau Director Mick Mulvaney to stand against any attempt to undermine or weaken the Military Lending Act of 2006. At issue are proposed rule changes that would reduce government oversight of payday lenders, who in the past were allowed to charge military service personnel as much as 400 percent interest on short-term loans. Along with damaging individual credit ratings, failing to make good on those predatory loans impacts security clearances, military careers, and ultimately, military readiness. The Military Lending Act capped those interest rates at 36 percent.

The proposed rule changes would reduce government enforcement and oversight; or, in other words, allow the payday lenders to once again police their own industry.

Housing Grant for Disabled Veterans:

VA provides grants to Service members and Veterans with certain permanent and total service-connected disabilities to help purchase or construct an adapted home or modify an existing home to accommodate a disability. Two grant programs exist: the Specially Adapted Housing (SAH) grant and the Special Housing Adaptation (SHA) grant.

Specially Adapted Housing (SAH) Grant

SAH grants help Veterans with certain service-connected disabilities live independently in a barrier-free environment. SAH grants can be used in one of the following ways:

- Construct a specially adapted home on land to be acquired
- Build a home on land already owned if it is suitable for specially adapted housing
- Remodel an existing home if it can be made suitable for specially adapted housing
- Apply the grant against the unpaid principal mortgage balance of an adapted home already acquired without the assistance of a VA grant.

Special Housing Adaptation (SHA) Grant

SHA grants help Veterans with certain service-connected disabilities adapt or purchase a home to accommodate the disability. You can use SHA grants in one of the following ways:

- Adapt an existing home the Veteran or a family member already owns in which the Veteran lives
- Adapt a home the Veteran or family member intends to purchase in which the Veteran will live
- Help a Veteran purchase a home already adapted in which the Veteran will live

Temporary Residence Adaptation (TRA) Grant

A temporary grant may be available to SAH/SHA eligible Veterans and Service members who are or will be temporarily residing in a home owned by a family member.

- The TRA grant will not be deducted from the total grant funds available to a Veteran or Service member (cont' below)

- The TRA grant will be deducted from one of the three usages available to the Veteran or Service member
- The maximum amount available to adapt a family member's home for the SAH grant is $35,593 and for the SHA grant is $6,355

Eligibility

If you are a Service member or Veteran with a permanent and total service-connected disability, you may be entitled to a Specially Adapted Housing (SAH) grant or a Special Housing Adaptation (SHA) grant. The table below provides an overview of VA's housing grant programs for Veterans with certain service-connected disabilities.

Service Officer:

Hello Legion Members.

This month we honor M...memorials and monuments. Uncle Sam needs you! Or rather, the Idaho Veteran Memorial History Project needs you. At this time, there are 57 "pins" in Idaho identifying points of recognition to veterans. See the following information and enjoy a trip through Idaho to see if you can help.

Using HistoryPin.org, the Idaho Division of Veterans Services with assistance from you, the public, is attempting to compile a comprehensive list of all known art, commemorations, monuments, memorials, etcetera honoring Military and Veterans within the state of Idaho.

See the user guide attached below for instructions on how to participate in this important project.

VA achieves historic goal by delivering 81,000 appeals decisions to Veterans in fiscal 2018

WASHINGTON — On Sept. 14, two weeks ahead of schedule, the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) exceeded its goal to deliver 81,000 appeals decisions of disability benefits and services to Veterans in fiscal year 2018 — 28,000 more decisions than the previous year.

In doing so, VA's Board of Veterans' Appeals provided thousands of Veterans with critical, life-changing decisions.

"The Board's historic achievement delivering results to Veterans and their families reflects VA's hard work and commitment to getting it right for our Veterans under the leadership of President Trump," said VA Secretary Robert Wilkie. "Together, we have achieved significant results for our nation's Veterans, as each of the more than 81,000 decisions produced by the Board can make a real difference in their lives and for their families."

The achievements come amid focused Board efforts to prepare for the full implementation of the Veterans Appeals Improvement and Modernization Act of 2017, which is transforming a historically complex appeals process into a simple, timely and transparent process providing Veterans with increased choice and control. Veterans who disagree with the initial claim decision have three options under the Act:

1. Higher Level Review at the office of original jurisdiction
2. Supplemental Claim with the office of original jurisdiction
3. Appeal to the Board

Once a Veteran appeals to the Board, he or she remains in control of the process by choosing one of three dockets best suited to the appeal:

1. Direct Review Docket
2. Evidence Docket
3. Hearing Docket

To support the various organizations preparing to help Veterans navigate the new appeals process, the chairman of the Board and her staff led numerous training sessions and panels held by national, state and local Veteran Service Organizations and private legal organizations.

To maintain its momentum, the Board hired 186 new attorneys this fiscal year, and plans to add 30 more to the team by Sept. 30. Additionally, the Board is joining the Military Spouse Employment Partnership in October, and looks forward to participating in a program that helps bring the valuable insights and tremendous talent of military spouses to the Board.

The Last of the Coast Guard's MIAs

The frozen terrain in which the remains of Pritchard, his crew and the Grumman Duck have been preserved for over seventy years.

Last week saw the annual observance of the National Prisoner of War/Missing in Action Recognition Day. Of the service's three known MIAs, two may still be frozen in Greenland's ice cap.

Like many selfless Coast Guardsmen, Lt. John Pritchard (left) and Petty Officer First Class Benjamin Bottoms, a radioman, went in harm's way to save lives only to sacrifice their own. "Johnny" Pritchard graduated from the Coast Guard Academy in 1938 and earned his wings at Pensacola Naval Air Station in 1941. His initial tour of duty began in Miami before the service re-assigned him to the cutter Northland on the Greenland Patrol. Born in Georgia, Benjamin Bottoms enlisted in 1932. In a year, he received assignment to the service's communication division and became a radio operator aboard east coast cutters. He was first assigned to the aviation branch at Salem Air Station, in Massachusetts, and joined cutter Northland as an aircraft radioman in early 1942.

During World War II, the Coast Guard ran the Greenland theatre of operations. It was one of the war's deadliest battlegrounds, where men fought not only the enemy, but the elements as well. The Greenland patrol's conditions included heavy seas, severe cold, gale force winds and whiteout conditions. In this dangerous environment, Pritchard and Bottoms manned the amphibian aircraft on board cutter Northland, which patrolled the east coast of Greenland.

Late in 1942, during Pritchard and Bottoms' first deployment aboard Northland, the cutter received word that a Royal Canadian Air Force bomber had crash-landed on the Greenland ice cap. Pritchard volunteered to lead a search party to find the Canadian bomber's three survivors. On Monday, Nov. 23, 1942, he led a party 2,000 feet up the coastal mountains to the ice cap and traversed the heavily crevassed ice at night using a flashlight to guide him. Later that night, he found the exhausted Canadian flyers and brought them back to the Northland. For leading this search and rescue effort, Pritchard received the Navy & Marine Corps Medal, the highest recognition for a wartime rescue mission.

Earlier the same month, a U.S. Army Air Corps C-53 transport aircraft had also been lost on the ice cap.

On Nov. 9, a B-17 Flying Fortress took to the skies to find the missing aircraft. Weather conditions and poor visibility forced the bomber to crash land on the ice cap. Searches for the C-53 transport proved fruitless, so search efforts began to focus instead on the downed B-17 and its nine crewmembers.

On Nov. 28, within days of his successful rescue of the Canadians, Pritchard, along with Bottoms (left), departed Northland in the cutter's J2F Grumman "Duck" to search for the B-17. In a few hours, they had located the crash site, landed on the ice near the Flying Fortress and hiked two miles back to the B-17, testing the crevassed ice with a broomstick. Pritchard and Bottoms took two of the bomber's crew and escorted them over the dangerous ice to the Duck. Pritchard decided to evacuate the rest of the crew two at a time in a series of roundtrips back to the cutter. By the time the Duck returned to Northland that evening, the cutter had to use her searchlights to light the way home.

On the morning of Sunday, Nov. 29, Pritchard and Bottoms landed once again on the ice near the downed bomber. By coincidence, an Army rescue party using motor sleds had approached the crash site at the same time Pritchard landed. However, before the Army party arrived at the B-17, one of the motor sleds broke through a snow bridge into a crevasse dragging an Army officer into the bottomless fissure below. After Pritchard and Bottoms made their way from the Duck to the downed bomber, fog began to surround the area and visibility worsened. Pritchard decided to return to Northland for men and equipment to help find the missing Army officer. One of the B-17 survivors joined Pritchard and Bottoms and the three walked back to the Duck. They took-off and flew into the cloud cover. As the dense fog and blowing snow closed in, Bottoms' transmissions to Northland grew weaker, then were lost altogether. That was the last anyone heard from the Duck.

For a second time, the rescuers had become the victims. Over the next month, Northland sent out several unsuccessful parties on foot to locate Pritchard's crash site. Four months after Pritchard's disappearance, an Army Air Corps plane spotted the crash site of the Duck, but no recovery expeditions deployed. Meanwhile, treacherous ice and weather conditions postponed evacuation of the B-17 crew. However, in the spring of 1943, a Navy PBV "Catalina" flying boat repeated Pritchard's daring feat of landing on the ice cap using its floats to rescue the bomber crew.

For their air rescue of B-17 crewmembers, Pritchard and Bottoms posthumously received the Distinguished Flying Cross, although some believe they deserved the Medal of Honor. In early 1943, head of the U.S. Army Air Corps, Major General George Stratemeyer, contacted the commander of the Greenland patrol commending the efforts to rescue his downed aviators writing, "The tragic loss of Lieutenant John A. Pritchard, USN, and Radioman Benjamin A. Bottoms, USN, will be remembered as part of a great act of heroism. Their sacrifice in the performance of duty comports with the highest traditions of the armed services."

In 2009, an expedition traveled to the east coast of Greenland to locate the crash site of Pritchard's aircraft. The expedition proved unsuccessful; however, in later years, a number of follow-up expeditions were launched to locate the crash site. The burial of the aircraft under seventy years of snowfall and the movement of the ice in which it is embedded have hampered these search efforts. The story of Pritchard and Bottoms and the attempts to find them served as the focus of the 2013 bestseller book "Frozen in Time" by Mitchell Zuckoff. In 2014, the Coast Guard Academy inducted Pritchard into its Hall of Heroes while Bottoms has been honored as the namesake for a new Fast Response Cutter.

The horrendous air, sea and ice conditions experienced by Coast Guard personnel on the Greenland patrol were arguably the deadliest environment experienced in World War II. Pritchard and Bottoms battled those epic conditions while fighting to save stranded and suffering aircrews. Despite valiant efforts to locate Coast Guard heroes Pritchard and Bottoms, they remain among the service's last MIAs. They were members of the long blue line and their story is one of the U.S. Coast Guard's finest examples of self-sacrifice and devotion to duty.

VET HOME MAY HAPPEN SOONER

September 22, 2018 at 5:00 am |

Len Crosby, Post 154 Member

BRIAN WALKER

Staff Writer

POST FALLS — Supporters of a future Idaho veterans home in Post Falls hope the project will hit a faster track to construction thanks to a proposed increase in federal funding for such efforts.

"We've been looking at seven to 10 years on the waiting list, but a proposed six-fold increase in funding for veterans homes could dramatically move us up to construction in 18 to 24 months from now," said Len Crosby, a local veteran who is bird-dogging the effort.

Crosby, Post Falls Mayor Ron Jacobson and

Idaho Division of Veterans Services Administrator Marv Hagedorn recently met with Riverbend Commerce Park officials at the park where the Jacklin family donated a 7.3-acre, shovel-ready site for the 56-bed facility.

The proposed Veterans Affairs budget has been approved in the House and is expected to be voted on by the Senate in October.

Mayor Ron Jacobson

Federal funding will pay for 65 percent of the vet home project, while the state's contribution is 35 percent. The state Legislature earlier passed a resolution to fund its share.

"The potential that the project will be done on an expedited basis is really exciting," Jacobson told The Press on Friday.

Crosby said the fact that the Post Falls project won't be as large as many in other states also bodes well with the funding possibility.

"If they go down the priority list and have only 'x' amount of dollars left, they may get to us quicker since our facility will be smaller and cost less," he said.

Crosby didn't immediately know a cost estimate for the Post Falls home because it has been redesigned from the original plan. The original plan called for a fragmented facility with multiple pods.

"That may work well in southern California, but not up here where we have snow and ice five months out of the year," Crosby said. "It has been redesigned into a more contiguous facility."

The home will serve veterans in the five counties of North Idaho.

"The closest home is in Lewiston, which is a long drive for veterans and their families, especially in the winter," Crosby said.

The other state veterans' homes are in Pocatello and Boise.

Resident Disabled American Veterans - Reduced Fees

Resident disabled American veterans may be eligible for DAV reduced fees for licenses and tags. The DAV license, $5, allows the disabled veteran to purchase reduced fee Disabled American Veteran tags for deer $10.75, elk $16.50, bear $6.75, or turkey $10.75. They must submit a letter from the Veterans Affairs office verifying a service-connected disability rating of 40 percent or greater. Letters can be brought to any regional office or mailed to the address below. Such documentation may bear any date prior to license application. Documentation for the resident DAV license will be required only for the initial application and will not be required for subsequent applications.

Nonresident Disabled Veterans - Reduced Fees (effective May 16, 2014)

Nonresident disabled American veterans with a disability rating of 40 percent or more by Veterans Affairs are eligible for nonresident DAV reduced fees for licenses and tags.

Individuals meeting the DAV requirements must submit a letter from the Veterans Affairs office verifying a service-connected disability rating of 40 percent or greater. Letters can be brought to any regional office or mailed to the address below. Such documentation may bear any date prior to license application. Documentation for the nonresident DAV license will be required only for the initial application and will not be required for subsequent applications.

The nonresident DAV hunting with 3-day fishing license, $31.75, allows the nonresident disabled veteran to purchase reduced fee nonresident Disabled American Veteran tags for deer $23.75, elk $39.75, bear $23.75, or turkey $19.75.
